

Miller & Chevalier Again Named a Top 30 Investigations Practice by Global Investigations Review

10.26.2018

Washington, DC, October 26, 2018 – Miller & Chevalier Chartered proudly announces that the firm was named as one of the top 30 investigations practices globally in the Global Investigations Review (GIR) GIR 30, an independent guide to the world's best firms for cross-border investigations. The rankings are derived from an analysis of factors designed to measure scale, scope, and complexity of the matters the investigations practices have handled in the past two years, the firm's performance in those matters, and the recognized quality and substantive and geographic expertise of the lawyers involved. The recognition marks the fourth consecutive year the firm's work on behalf of their global clients earned them a spot in the GIR 30. The awards ceremony was held in Washington, DC, on October 25, 2018.

GIR notes that "[e]schewing conventional wisdom that suggests bigger is better," GIR found that from its base in Washington, DC, Miller & Chevalier maintains a "pre-eminent" practice "that is truly international in scope, and which regularly advises on some of the biggest cases." GIR notes that over its "long track record of prominent investigations," Miller & Chevalier "is recognised for its ability to secure favourable settlements with authorities," as well as being entrusted with several "high-profile monitorships." The firm draws on its team of "star practitioners with a range of subject matter and geographic expertise," which include lawyers fluent in 13 languages. When it deploys this combination of depth, breadth, and experience for clients around the globe, GIR notes, Miller & Chevalier "packs a punch."
