

DC Bar Communities Program: "Representing Clients in Congressional Investigations"

09.16.2019

Washington, DC

Andrew D. Herman will be speaking during the DC Bar Communities program, "Representing Clients in Congressional Investigations," on September 16, 2019.

Last year, there was significant litigation regarding congressional subpoenas in both U.S. Senate and House Committees. With an eye toward last year's litigation and the possibility of additional contentious subpoenas in the new Congress, this program focuses on how Congress conducts its investigations, including the unique scope of its subpoena power and enforcement procedures. Attendees will learn the manner in which congressional staffers conduct these investigations, how they interact with subjects, and the subjects' options in responding to inquiries.
