

Miller & Chevalier Again Named a Top 30 Investigations Practice by Global Investigations Review

10.23.2020

Washington, DC, October 23, 2020 – Miller & Chevalier Chartered proudly announces that the firm was named as one of the top 30 investigations practices globally in the Global Investigations Review (GIR) GIR 30, an independent guide to the world's best firms for cross-border investigations. The rankings are derived from an analysis of factors designed to measure scale, scope, and complexity of the matters the investigations practices have handled in the past two years, the firm's performance in those matters, and the recognized quality and substantive and geographic expertise of the lawyers involved. The recognition marks the sixth consecutive year the firm's work on behalf of their global clients earned them a spot in the GIR 30. The first-ever virtual awards ceremony was held on October 22, 2020.

"[E]schewing conventional wisdom that suggests bigger is better," GIR found that from its base in Washington, DC, Miller & Chevalier maintains a "pre-eminent international practice" that "regularly secures some of the biggest international white-collar cases." GIR noted that the firm "is recognised for its ability to secure favourable settlements with authorities," and is "frequently entrusted to lead much sought-after corporate monitorships." The firm draws on its team of "star practitioners with a range of subject matter and geographic expertise," which include lawyers fluent in 14 languages. When it deploys this combination of depth, breadth, and experience for clients around the globe, GIR notes that Miller & Chevalier is a "premier shop for some of the world's most prominent clients."
