International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations and law societies. The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 30,000 individual lawyers and more than 195 bar associations and law societies spanning all continents. It has considerable expertise in providing assistance to the global legal community as well as being a source of distinguished legal commentators for international news outlets.

Grouped into two divisions – the Legal Practice Division and the Public and Professional Interest Division – the IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to-date information. Through the various committees of the divisions, the IBA enables an interchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of business law around the globe.

Anti-Corruption Committee

The Anti-Corruption Committee anticipates engaging in a number of activities this year. The committee is holding its sixth annual 'the awakening giant of anti-corruption enforcement' conference in Paris and will hold an organisational meeting at the IBA's mid-year meeting in Amsterdam, followed by a general business meeting at the annual meeting in Buenos Aires. The committee plans to sponsor a number of sessions at the Annual Conference in Buenos Aires, including a session on corruption and the judiciary, as well as to conduct the first annual survey of regional developments in anti-corruption efforts.

Further information about the Anti-Corruption Committee will regularly be posted on the IBA website at www.ibanet.org/publicprofinterest/Anti_Corruption.cfm.
