ATTACHMENT B

I, Robert Taylor, have been a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (“FBI”) for approximately sixteen years, and I have been personally involved in the investigation of this matter. The information contained in this Complaint is based upon my personal knowledge, as well as information obtained from other sources, including: (a) statements made or reported by various witnesses with knowledge of relevant facts; (b) my review of publicly available information relating to KNUT HAMMARSKJOLD, the defendant; (c) documents obtained from various sources; and (d) discussions with other law enforcement officials. Because this Complaint is being submitted for the limited purpose of establishing probable cause, it does not include every fact that I have learned during the course of the investigation. Where the content of documents and the actions, statements, and conversations of others are reported herein, they are reported in substance and in part, except where otherwise indicated.

BACKGROUND

At all times relevant to this Complaint:

1. The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (“FCPA”), Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78dd-1, et seq., was enacted by Congress for the purpose of, among other things, making it unlawful for certain classes of persons and entities to act corruptly in furtherance of an offer, promise, authorization, or payment of money or anything of value to a foreign government official for the purpose of assisting in obtaining or retaining business for, or directing business to, any person.

2. The defendant, KNUT HAMMARSKJOLD (“HAMMARSKJOLD”), was one of two chief executive officers of PetroTiger, Ltd. (“PetroTiger”), a British Virgin Islands oil and gas company with operations in Colombia and offices in New Jersey. During a two-year period, HAMMARSKJOLD and two other executives at PetroTiger (“Executive A” and “Executive B,” described more fully below), engaged in a scheme to obtain kickbacks at the expense of their investing partners, in violation of the wire fraud statute, and to pay bribes to a foreign official (the “Official”), in order to secure a lucrative oil services contract in the Republic of Colombia (“Colombia”) on behalf of PetroTiger, in violation of the FCPA.

3. HAMMARSKJOLD was a citizen of the United States and thus was a “domestic concern,” as that term is used in FCPA, Title 15, United States Code, Section 78dd-2(h)(1)(A). HAMMARSKJOLD’s responsibilities at PetroTiger included overseeing the operations of PetroTiger, obtaining contracts with new customers, and retaining contracts with existing customers, including a contract in Colombia with another company, Mansarovar Energy Colombia Ltd., to perform oil-related services in Colombia (the “Mansarovar Contract”).

4. Executive A was the other chief executive officer at PetroTiger. Executive A was a citizen of the United States and thus was a “domestic concern,” as that term is used in the FCPA, Title 15, United States Code, Section 78dd-2(h)(1)(A). Executive A’s responsibilities at PetroTiger included overseeing the operations of PetroTiger, obtaining contracts with new customers, and retaining contracts with existing customers, including the Mansarovar Contract in Colombia. In addition, Executive A was responsible for negotiating the terms of the acquisition of an oil services company with operations in Colombia (the “Target Company,” described more fully below).

5. Executive B was an officer and general counsel at PetroTiger. Executive B was a citizen of the United States and a resident of New Jersey and thus was a “domestic concern,” as that term is used in the FCPA, Title 15, United States Code, Section 78dd-2(h)(1)(A). Executive B worked out of an office in New Jersey. Executive B’s responsibilities at PetroTiger included oversight of PetroTiger’s bank account in the United States and the authorization of payments from that account.

6. “Employee A” was an employee at PetroTiger involved in engineering.

7. The Target Company was an oil services company with operations in Colombia. Prior to in or around 2009, the Target Company was owned by “Owner-1,” “Owner-2,” and “Owner-3,” described more fully below. In or around 2009, PetroTiger acquired the Target Company for approximately $53 million.

8. Owner-1 was a U.S. citizen and one of three owners of the Target Company.

9. Owner-2 was a U.S. citizen and one of three owners of the Target Company. Owner-2 was the father of Owner-1.

10. Owner-3 was a Panamanian citizen and one of three owners of the Target Company.

11. “Investing Partner 1” was a Colombian national and a member of the board of directors of PetroTiger. Investing Partner 1, together with Investing Partner 1’s company, invested approximately $20 million to acquire the Target Company.

12. “Investing Partner 2” was a Colombian national and a member of the board of directors of PetroTiger. Investing Partner 2, together with Investing Partner 2’s company, invested approximately $15 million to acquire the Target Company.

13. Ecopetrol S.A. (“Ecopetrol”) was the state-owned and state-controlled petroleum company in Colombia and an “agency” and “instrumentality” of a foreign government, as those terms are used in the FCPA, Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78dd-2(h)(2) and 78dd-3(f)(2). Ecopetrol was created by national law, and it was required by law that Colombia conserve, at a minimum, eighty percent of the shares in circulation, with voting rights. During the relevant time period, Colombia controlled 89.9% of Ecopetrol’s outstanding capital stock, and held the right to elect the majority of the members of the company’s board of directors. Ecopetrol’s board of directors included the Minister of Mines and Energy, the Minister of Finance, and the Director of the National Planning Agency of Colombia. Ecopetrol was responsible for approving contracts to drill or perform services on oil fields in Colombia, including the Mansarovar Contract.

14. The “Official” was an official at Ecopetrol and had influence over the approval and award of contracts by Ecopetrol, including the Mansarovar Contract. The Official was a “foreign official,” as that term is used in the FCPA, Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78dd-2(h)(2) and 78dd-3(f)(2).

15. The “Official’s Wife” was the wife of the Official. The Official’s Wife purportedly provided finance and management related consulting services for PetroTiger. In reality, the Official’s Wife served as a conduit for bribe payments to the Official.

THE KICKBACK SCHEME

16. From in or around June 2009 to in or around February 2010, HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, together with others, engaged in a fraudulent scheme to obtain kickbacks from the owners of the Target Company that HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, together with their investing partners, were seeking to acquire.

17. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents’ interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails, I know that Executive A was responsible for negotiating the terms of the acquisition of the Target Company on behalf of the investing partners. In or around June 2009, Owner-1, one of the three owners of the Target Company, requested from Executive A that Owner-1 and the other owners of the Target Company be paid an additional approximately $435,000 in connection with the acquisition of the Target Company. However, Owner-2 and Owner-3 simply wanted to close the deal and were satisfied with the offer price without the additional approximately $435,000. Executive A, on behalf of the investing partners, negotiated the increased purchase price in exchange for Owner-2 and Owner-3 agreeing to kick back their shares of the approximately $435,000 to HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B.

18. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents’ interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and bank records, I know that in order to conceal the kickback scheme, HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B instructed the two owners of the Target Company to pay the kickback into Executive A’s bank account in the Philippines, rather than into an account in the United States. Once the money was transferred into Executive A’s bank account in the Philippines, Executive A then divided up the money and transferred portions of the money to bank accounts in the control of HAMMARSKJOLD and Executive B. Executive A received approximately $239,015, HAMMARSKJOLD received approximately $106,592, and Executive B received approximately $51,618.

19. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents’ interviews of witnesses, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B did not disclose to their investing partners that they were receiving a kickback in exchange for the additional money that the investing partners would be paying in connection with the acquisition of the Target Company. As a result, the investing partners were deprived of money and property and the honest services of HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B.

20. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents’ interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, discussed via telephone and via electronic mail (“e-mail”) methods of concealing and disguising the kickback payments, including using the code name “Manila Split” to refer to the distribution of the kickback proceeds, creating a “side letter” that falsely justified the kickback payments, and having the proceeds deposited into foreign bank accounts, including HAMMARSKJOLD's bank accounts in the Philippines and the United Kingdom.

21. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, instructed Owner-2 and Owner-3 to deposit the kickback proceeds into Executive A's bank account in the Philippines.

22. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' review of e-mails, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, discussed via e-mail how HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B would divide and share the kickback proceeds.

23. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, discussed in person, via telephone, and via e-mail how Executive A would transfer to HAMMARSKJOLD and Executive B their shares of the kickback payments.

24. On or about August 12, 2009, HAMMARSKJOLD sent an e-mail to Executive B, asking, "...did [Owner-2] send our money out?"

25. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' review of bank records, I know that on or about August 18, 2009, Owner-2 transferred approximately $108,551 from the bank account of the Target Company to Executive A's Bank of the Philippines bank account in the Philippines.

26. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' review of bank records, I know that on or about August 18, 2009, Owner-2 transferred an additional approximately $153,324 from the bank account of the Target Company to Executive A's Bank of the Philippines bank account in the Philippines.

27. On or about October 23, 2009, HAMMARSKJOLD sent an e-mail to Executive B with the subject, "[W]hen you have a min could you figure out the Manila split?"

28. On or about November 10, 2009, Executive A sent an e-mail to HAMMARSKJOLD and Executive B with the subject, "Please send me your wire instructions for manila funds."

29. On or about November 11, 2009, HAMMARSKJOLD responded to Executive A's November 10, 2009 e-mail, instructing Executive A to wire approximately $110,000 to his bank account in London and approximately $38,960 to his bank account in the Philippines.

30. On or about January 15, 2010, Executive A caused a wire transfer in the amount of approximately $51,618 from his bank account in the Philippines to a bank account in New Jersey for the benefit of Executive B.

THE BRIBERY SCHEME

31. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and other PetroTiger documents, I know that from in or around May 2010 to in or around December 2010, HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, on behalf of PetroTiger, attempted to secure the Mansarovar Contract. Because Ecopetrol had ultimate authority for approving projects and contracts to perform oil-related services in Colombia, HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B were required to obtain approval from Ecopetrol for the Mansarovar Contract.

32. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and bank records, I know that in order to secure Ecopetrol's approval for the Mansarovar Contract, HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, together with others, paid bribes to the Official, who had the ability to influence the approval process. HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, Executive B, and others, attempted to conceal the bribes by funneling the payments through the Official's Wife and by falsely claiming in documents that the payments were for finance and management consulting services that the Official's Wife purportedly performed for PetroTiger. The Official's Wife did not, in fact, perform any such services. When the transfers to the bank account in the name of the Official's Wife failed as a result of incorrect account information, HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, together with others, transferred the money directly to a bank account in the name of the Official. HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, together with others, made at least four transfers for the benefit of the Official totaling approximately $333,500, between in or around October 2010 and in or around December 2010.

33. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and other PetroTiger documents, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, Executive A, and Executive B, together with others, were successful in obtaining Ecopetrol's approval, and secured the Mansarovar Contract on behalf of PetroTiger. The Mansarovar Contract was valued at approximately $39.6 million, and has resulted in a gross profit, to date, of approximately $3.5 million.

34. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, discussed in person, via telephone, and via e-mail paying bribes to the Official in order to obtain approval from Ecopetrol for the Mansarovar Contract.

35. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and bank records, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, offered to pay, promised to pay, and authorized the payment of bribes, directly and indirectly, to and for the benefit of the Official, in order to obtain approval from Ecopetrol for the Mansarovar Contract.

36. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, discussed in person, via telephone, and via e-mail the manner and means by which the bribes were to be paid to the Official.

37. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and bank records, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, attempted to conceal the bribes to the Official by attempting to pay the bribes to the Official's Wife.

38. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and other documents produced by PetroTiger, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, further attempted to conceal the bribes to the Official by creating false justifications for the bribes to the Official's Wife, including invoices submitted by the Official's Wife that falsely claimed she performed finance and management consulting services for PetroTiger.

39. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' interviews of witnesses and a review of e-mails and bank records, I know that HAMMARSKJOLD, together with others, while in the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, caused bribes to be wired from the bank accounts of PetroTiger to the bank account of the Official.

40. On or about October 12, 2010, HAMMARSKJOLD sent an e-mail to Executive B and Employee A and informed Executive B that Employee A "should be sending you the billing details layter [sic] today."

41. On or about October 12, 2010, Employee A responded to HAMMARSKJOLD's e-mail with billing details, including an account number, an ABA number, and a Swift number.

42. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' review of bank records, I know that on or about October 12, 2010, Executive B, while in the District of New Jersey, caused PetroTiger to transfer approximately $133,400 from its bank account in New York to the bank account of the Official in Colombia.

43. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' review of bank records, I know that on or about December 6, 2010, Executive B, while in New Jersey, caused PetroTiger to transfer approximately $66,700 from its bank account in New York to the bank account of the Official in Colombia.

44. Based upon my and other law enforcement agents' review of bank records, I know that on or about December 28, 2010, Executive B, while in the District of New Jersey, caused PetroTiger to transfer approximately $66,700 from its bank account in New York to the bank account of the Official in Colombia.
